

Watson Wyatt and Number Partners

Working it out together

In partnership with the Number Partners Numeracy Programme - a Business in the Community initiative - Watson Wyatt associates in Reigate, Redhill, London, Manchester and from the new school year, in Leeds, are applying their advanced mathematical skills to a far more junior audience.

The Numbers Partners programme is a national initiative which aims to help children in primary education develop numeracy skills.

This is just one of the activities that Watson Wyatt is pleased to sponsor, recognising that our associates benefit from this type of activity as much as the local community.
